The driver of the truck, John Shield, 34, of Philadelphia, escaped serious injury.

MORALE OF JAPANESE ARMY STILL IS HIGH

TSINGTAO, Shantung Province, China, July 21.—(INS)—The backbone of wishful thinking of Chinese and foreigners in China and abroad takes a pretty bad thumping when one has visited as many Japanese units in the field as have I. The notion that the Imperial Japanese Army has been fighting too long to be high in morale is dangerous and distorted.

NEWTOWN SCHOOLS TO HAVE LARGER ENROLLMENT

Supervising Principal, A. Kurtz King, Expects at Least 450 Children Will Be Listed

SOME FROM TOWNSHIP

NEWTOWN, July 21.—According to Supervising Principal A. Kurtz King about 450 children will be enrolled in the local schools on Tuesday morning, September 5th. This is a slight increase over the enrollment last year.

The Newtown Township School Board will close two of the schools in the district because of the fact that the seventh and eighth grade pupils of the Township will attend the borough schools. Mr. King announced the increase is due to this fact.

A new course in vocational agriculture, which has already attracted the attention of 17 boys, has been introduced into the local school system, under the direction of Russell Ruble, who was graduated from State College last June.

Supervising Principal King has announced that the enrollment of the non-resident pupils will take place from nine to 12 o'clock and from one to three o'clock on Tuesday, August 1st. It is expected that about 250 boys and girls will be enrolled in grades seven to 12.

Mechanics at present are engaged in providing two new rooms to be used during the coming term by the home economics and shop departments.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

A Significant Shrinkage

Washington, July 20.
ONE salutory result of recent Washington developments is the shrinkage in importance of the little group of radical advisers who at various times have been described with such well-worn phrases as "the palace politicians," "the inner circle," "the Neo-New Dealers" and "those close to the President."

PROBABLY this is but a temporary shrinkage and the "bright boys," as they are derisively referred to by the conservative element, soon, under the warmth of White House favor, will expand to their former size. Nevertheless, at the moment, the shriveling is so beyond dispute as to make it much clearer than before how greatly over-rated these young gentlemen have been and how exceedingly little they amount to by themselves.

THE reason for this revelation is the simple fact that recently Mr. Roosevelt, in several matters of considerable importance, has acted without their advice, consent or even knowledge. Mr. Roosevelt is generally not supposed to do that. In fact, he generally has not. The entire reputation of the "bright boys" rests on the assumption that in all matters of prime policy and politics the President's actions are inspired and influenced by them. So long as that is accepted, naturally they are figures of recognized power; the moment the assumption becomes untenable, they descend with very great suddenness to a plane of complete insignificance. Because there is not in one of them any inherent strength.

SEEKS NOMINATION

For Common Pleas Court

HON. HIRAM H. KELLER

President Judge Hiram H. Keller, who is completing a 10-year term as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county, has announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket to succeed himself for a second term.

So wide-spread is the approval of Judge Keller's second-term announcement that members of the Bucks County Bar Association, including both Republican and Democratic lawyers, have endorsed his candidacy. It is quite probable that no candidate will be advanced by the Democratic party against the well known and popular jurist.

Appointed to the bench in March, 1929, by former Governor John S. Fisher, to become an associate of the late President Judge William C. Ryan, Judge Keller was the eighteenth judge to serve Bucks county. He served a few months in office before being elected for his first full 10-year term.

Judge Keller became president judge on May 9, 1930, after the death of the late William C. Ryan in April, 1930.

Personal ability and merit, together with a record for fairness and efficiency, are but a few of the outstanding qualifications that warrant the re-nomination and election of Judge Keller for a second term. Judge Keller's record on the bench can be pointed to with pride by the profession throughout the State.

In Bucks county, the election of Judge Keller to the bench 10 years ago, followed by the appointment of former United States District Attorney Calvin S. Boyer as his associate judge in June, 1930, marked the beginning of a very much improved judicial service made necessary by the increasing court business.

Instead of cases being carried over from term to term, business of the Court has been dispatched with promptness and the calendar kept up-to-date at all times. Very few reversals by the appellate courts, speak well of Judge Keller's record.

Judge Keller was born in Bedminster, son of Lewis Keller, who for years was a prominent merchant. He received his education in the public schools and the West Chester State Teachers' College. After three years of teaching he entered Gettysburg College, graduating in 1901, and subsequently from the law school of the University of Pennsylvania.

Several years ago Judge Keller's friends honored him by electing him a member of the board of trustees of Gettysburg College.

Judge Keller was admitted to the Philadelphia Bar in 1904 and the Bucks County Bar in 1905. He has practiced in the Supreme and Superior Courts of Pennsylvania and the U. S. District Court. In 1917 he was elected District Attorney of Bucks county and was re-elected in 1921. In December, 1928, he was appointed Workmen's Compensation Referee by former Governor Fisher.

For years before his election to the bench, Judge Keller was Republican County Committee chairman.

Judge Keller is prominent in fraternal circles, a member of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, American Bar Association and has a number of club affiliations.

Judge Keller is a member of the Union League and the Penna. A. C.

STATE ROAD BRIDGE TO OPEN TOMORROW AT NOON TO TRAFFIC

New Span Completed and Guard Rails Are Now Being Placed

BRIDGE COST $115,000.00

Approaches Have All Been Improved With Hard and Smooth Roadways

CROYDON, July 21.—Tomorrow, at noon, Bristol Township and Bensalem Township will be re-united here when the new $115,000 steel and concrete bridge carrying traffic on State Road over the Neshaminy Creek is officially opened.

This statement was made today by the superintendent of bridge construction, Walter P. Oleksiak. Workmen are busy putting on the finishing touches, including painting, cleaning the debris, and erecting the guard rails on the approaches.

No official ceremony is planned in connection with the opening to traffic, according to Oleksiak. "At noon on Saturday the barriers on each end will be removed and it will be open," he stated.

Work on removal of the old cradle type bridge was begun last November 9th. It was completely torn down and the old piers were removed. The new bridge, entirely of steel and concrete, will be capable of bearing the heaviest loads with ease.

The contractors for the new structure, known as a 3-span plate girder bridge, are Knick & Meenan Company, Mahanoy City. Additional time over the original 120 days allotted for completion.

Informal Exhibits Are Sponsored at Trevoise

TREVOISE, July 21.—"Over the Garden Fence" was the title of a sketch staged in the community house, here, Tuesday evening, on the occasion of the monthly meeting of Trevoise Horticultural Society. The participants were members of the Main Line Suburban Garden Club.

TAX CUT—MORE SPENDING

Senate action on the House revision of the Social Security Act includes cordial indorsement of the tax reductions in the House bill. We have here final assurance that, together with certain other alleviations, the Social Security payroll taxes will not be raised 50 per cent in 1940.

But there is nothing gratifying in the readiness of a Senate majority to assume the additions to Federal pension costs which the House rejected, without making tax provisions to meet the increases.

The concessions form a major part of the tax relief for business this year, for which the Administration and the Democratic majorities in Congress expect to obtain political credit. Assuming any of the Senate additions in the other respect remain in the final law, after the adjustment in conference between the Senate and House, the tax omission will belong as largely in the completed result as the tax concessions.

The same bill that admits taxes must come down nevertheless proceeds to charge new costs against the government's general revenues, from which nearly $2 is already being spent for each $1 coming in. With the Senate the chief offender, the course on pensions becomes the same pursued on agricultural benefits, river and harbor improvements and the list besides of spending proposals having political attraction—millions summing up to a billion, voted with complete disregard of the ability to pay.

If spending recklessly, heading toward financial disruption of the government, is to be stopped, the fact daily becomes more and more apparent that it can be accomplished only by a President and a Congress who take a firm stand against ALL spending not adequately supported by Federal taxes which are kept within the reasonable capacity of the people to pay them.

YOUNG TRAFFIC VICTIMS

There is no dread that sits more heavily upon motorists than that of children darting into their path without warning. Even the most careful of drivers may have such experiences. Nor is it an infrequent occurrence. Every year thousands of children are killed or maimed in this manner because communities cannot mix playing children with moving traffic without disastrous results.

And what is the average community doing about it? Playgrounds are available to some children in summer but the roller-skater and bicycle-rider cannot go there and in winter even the playgrounds are closed.

The cities and towns of tomorrow will be planned with this need in mind. There will be no busy thoroughfares for children to cross going to and from school and recreational centers. But the "new town" of the "new day" is still only a vision, allowing one or two exceptions of an experimental nature. Something must be done to make the old town of the old day a safer place in which to play.

If you think we are out of the jungle, please observe the faces of those watching a man slip on a banana peel.

You can tell the morons. They think something rotten is great stuff because a famous guy did it.

RECENTLY Mr. Roosevelt has been operating in three separate fields with practically no advice at all from this group which had come to regard its advice as indispensable. It has been something of a shock to its members and it is putting it mildly to say that they do not like it. One field has been that of foreign policy; another that of domestic policy and a third that of practical politics. Take, first, the neutrality issue. On that the President not only has acted through Mr. Hull, upon whom the young radicals look with contempt, but his main support has come from a conservative press which both he and the inner-circle inmates have been accustomed to denounce. On this issue the feeling of the "bright boys" was one partly of indifference, partly of hostility and their privately expressed view about the President's defeat was that "it served him damned good and right."

WILLOW GROVE PARK

Boat-tilting bout between shorts-and-helmet clad men of McKinley Fire Company (left) and Abington Fire Company (right) on Willow Grove Park's lake Saturday, ended in a draw as the boys ashore "turned on the heat" with a third fire hose and swamped both boats. Men of these two companies—members of the five-company Abington Township Firemen's Association who are sponsoring the spectacular night display of fire-fighting men and equipment in Willow Grove Park on Wednesday, July 26th—met with Chairman Edwin H. Geissler and his committee in the park last Saturday to arrange preliminary details of the affair when the boys pictured above played "hooky" to stage their friendly boat-tilting battle. Croydon Fire Company, No. 1, will participate in the event of July 26th, and will display their usual smartly efficient appearance.

ANOTHER thing on which, in their view, the President "went wrong" was in the matter of the WPA strike. While they conceded he had to say "You cannot strike against the Government," if he had taken their advice—which he did not—he would have expressed sympathy with the union grievances and urged that the labor demands be met by amending the law. That this meant a complete reversal of his position apparently was not to be considered. It is to the credit of Mr. Roosevelt that he did not permit himself to be pushed into any such stultification, but his radical intimates were none the less grieved.

THE third shock came in the McNutt appointment to a post which, above all others, the President's "real friends" (as the young radicals regard themselves) think should be filled by one of "our kind" of New Dealer. They were not consulted about Mr. McNutt; they dislike Mr. McNutt; they distrust Mr. McNutt and more heatedly than anyone else they reject the Roosevelt contention that there was no politics in the selection of Mr. McNutt. Even they know better than that.

IF they had been really smart these "real friends" would have taken the several—and rather unique—instances of Presidential independence of them in their stride. Instead they got sore, belittled to their journalistic reflectors and were extremely caustic in their comments. Some even intimated that they might drop the great "draft" movement, resign and "go home." That, of course, made them ridiculous, it being altogether clear that the only way to get a resignation out of one of these boys would be to use a jimmy. And "home" is the last place they want to go.

AS for the "draft" movement, the utter futility of the group is too apparent to argue. Not one of them has either a personal following or carries an ounce of political weight. If all these furtive little White House economists, lawyers, ghost writers and propaganda experts should quit, the "draft" movement would not be affected one way or another. Except when Mr. Roosevelt is guided by them they are destitute of power and devoid of influence. In the past they have swayed the President in many matters which did neither him nor the country any good. By themselves, they amount to nothing at all—and never did. It is encouraging to have had at least one convincing demonstration of that fact.

When he loses his job as apartment house doorman he undertakes the training of a young fighter, who ultimately reaches the goal of a fight with the champion, McLaglen's son, played by Donald Briggs, has meanwhile speculated with a client's money, and faces disgrace and prison unless the funds are replaced.

TIGER REED'S FISTS HAVE TAKEN HIM AROUND THE GLOBE

The Last Country That The "Tiger" Visited Was Australia

BOXED FIVE CONTESTS

Reed Says That "Buzz-Saw" Terry Is A Great Fighter

There is an old adage that is often quoted, "A rolling stone never gathers any moss," which is applicable to "Tiger" Reed, of Philadelphia, who boxes Young Terry, of Trenton, here, Monday night at St. Ann's open-air arena. The "Tiger" is quite a better, but does not stay put in any one place long enough to earn the recognition due a boxer of his calibre. In one respect he is like his opponent on Monday, his fists have taken him around the globe.

His last sojourn away from the family hearth took him to Australia, the land of the Antipodes. While there, Reed boxed in five contests, winning four and getting a draw with the great Jimmy Carrol, the welterweight champion of the island. One of the present contenders for the crown now worn by Henry Armstrong, Jimmy Leto, refused to box Reed when offered the match, saying he was homesick for the U. S. A.

"Terry," said Reed while working out today, "was a great fighter, not a good one but a great one with a capital G. That was before he laid off boxing. Some of his fights can be classed with the classics of the prize ring. How good he is now only time will tell. But I will find that out about 10 o'clock on next Monday night when we answer the bell. I think I will take him before the eighth round is reached." In passing, it might be mentioned that Reed is a reminder of that great "Tiger" of other years, "Tiger" Flowers, the famed deacon of the squared circle, in that both are studious and well educated gentlemen.

The semi-windup will be a six rounder featuring Danny Russell, of Philadelphia, and Leonard Hayes, of Trenton. Another six-round announced by Joe Gruner, the promoter, will be a rematch with that popular Croydon battler, Hokey Leighton, meeting Howard "Kid" Sewell, of Philadelphia. Their last match was a sizzler until Leighton put over the crusher, and the fans are going to see that Sewell gets a chance to redeem himself.

GRUNDY NINE DROPS ITS 5TH STRAIGHT TILT

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE
SCHEDULE FOR TONIGHT
ODD FELLOWS AT ROHM & HAAS
Umpire, Kervick; Scorer, Juno

Falling apart in the last two innings, the Grundy nine dropped its fifth straight tilt last evening on its home field, being beaten by the Odd Fellows, 11-2.

Errors were the main cause of the wooden workers' loss. A total of nine miscues were chalked up against the boys of Lefty DiTanna. In addition to this the fielding was slow and many balls went for hits that should have been put-outs had the players made attempts to get at them.

The winners made ten hits off Pete Kondyra. In the last inning Stallone relieved Kondyra. Kondyra has himself to blame for some of the damage done for on several occasions he failed to do his job when it came to fielding.

Jimmy Cooper had three out of four hits to lead the batters of the night. Berry had two out of four and drove in three runs. For the losers Charlie Ehrig had two out of three. Ennis was the winning pitcher.

The victory enabled the Oddies to take undisputed possession of second place and sent the Grundytes deeper into the cellar.

There will be a meeting of the twilight circuit tonight in the St. Ann's A. A. club house at eight forty-five o'clock.

Profy's Softball Ten Downs Chemical Makers

An eleven hit attack that produced six runs clinched the game between Profy's and Rohm and Haas and gave the Mill streeters undisputed possession of first place.

Woolley, Naylor and Grimes lead the hitting attack while the effective pitching of court held the chemical workers to four hits.

The game was called at the end of five innings because of darkness.

Heisler Spiked In Game Here Last Night

Lennie Heisler started on the mound for the Farmers but was forced to leave the game in the second inning when he was spiked by Johnson, first up in the inning, when Heisler grabbed his slow grounder and raced across the first base bag. Johnson's cleat came in contact with Heisler's left instep resulting in an ugly cut about four inches long. Given first aid by Dr. J. Fred Wagner it required several stitches to close the wound. Heisler will be unable to play for at least two weeks.

Howard Black relieving Heisler pitched splendid ball for the balance of the game, holding the visitors to six hits and a lone run. This one run came in the third inning as a result of doubles by Razzi and Smith.

Jack Broderick drove in both of the home team's runs. In the first inning he counted Liberator from second after the latter had reached first on Costello's grounder. Costello, Lodge and Broderick made successive hits in the third inning for the second out.

Bill Griggs and Johnnie Miksis were the fielding stars. Griggs ran deep into right field on the opening play of the game and caught Casale's fly, while Miksis made a wonderful shoe string catch on Byrnes line drive in the seventh.

State Road Bridge To Open Tomorrow at Noon to Traffic

tion of the structure was granted after the center span on the old bridge collapsed in the course of demolition. The girders used in the span are 104 feet in length and weigh 27 tons each. A total of 270,000 tons of structural steel and 53,000 tons of reinforcing steel were used in the construction. More than 1000 yards of concrete was used for the abutments, the two center piers, and the floor of the bridge.

The roadway on the bridge is 22 feet across, providing ample room for traffic. There is also a 6-foot sidewalk on the north side of the bridge. The two-inch wearing surface of concrete on the bridge is supported by a 9-inch concrete deck and the steel understructure. Thirty-eight steel floor beams, each weighing two tons, were used.

Raised above the old structure that it replaces the new bridge will be approximately 25 feet above the low water mark on the Neshaminy Creek at this point. Oleksiak pointed out that the pier pilings were driven to a depth of 35 feet thus assuring the maximum in rigidity and strength.

Approximately 6,000 yards of dirt were used to fill the approach on the Bensalem side. Formerly State Road, beginning at Haunted Lane, and running to the bridge, was considerably below the bridge level itself. The fill that was used will make the bridge, and both approaches level. The Bensalem approach, after the fill, was laid with an 8-inch stone base and then two inches of amesite placed on top to insure a smooth and lasting surface. Regulation guard rails will be erected along this stretch and on the short approach on the Croydon end.

An average of 35 men were employed daily on the structure. With its opening tomorrow the lower end of Bucks County will have one of the finest of modern bridges to carry State Road traffic. Besides being heavily used by residents of this section State Road is also used by through traffic, being a main route into Philadelphia.

$200,000 Blaze

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 21—A $200,000 fire, the most spectacular in the history of Wilkes-Barre, today destroyed a large lumber company yard and threatened to wipe out South Wilkes-Barre before being brought under control.

A deputy fire chief was injured by falling timber, and two other firemen were overcome by the conflagration, which attracted 50,000 spectators. A general alarm was turned in, bringing equipment from Hanover Township, Ashley and Nanticoke, to aid the Wilkes-Barre fire department.

In addition to the Robbins Lumber Company yard, two nearby buildings were destroyed and a third building badly damaged. Scores of other buildings were also affected by the flames and water.

The division, commanded by Lt. General H. Imamura with headquarters in this Chinese port which the Japanese wrested from the German concession holders in 1914, serves as an excellent illustration of what the Japanese doughboy has been through and what he still expects to be called upon to do.

General Imamura landed his force near Tientsin late in 1937 and led it southwards along the railway to capture Tsinan and then move eastward toward the coast to Tsingtao. With that action behind it, the division boarded transports and headed a thousand miles south to participate in the landing off Canton. When that operation was executed, it was moved back to Tsingtao and now is engaged in a struggle to drive Chiang Kai-shek's own troops and miscellaneous irregular Chinese units out of Shantung province.

Despite 18 months of continuous fighting on fronts separated by 1200 miles, General Imamura's men are still faced with almost daily encounters with varying sized Chinese armed bands. Every engagement means fresh casualties, killed and wounded. There has been no leave for either officers or men.

None of this has cracked Japanese fighting spirit. Instead, General Imamura looks forward to at least another year's serious fighting in Shantung. He explains it:

"I think that I can restore peace in a year," said the General. "The great masses of armed Chinese in Shantung are no more. The major part of our task should be completed in six months."

Meanwhile the troops of the Imamura division push into the countryside in small mobile units never knowing from whence the Chinese will strike. The General told how the guerillas destroy roads, cut telegraph lines, blow up railways and burn villages so that the advancing Japanese can find no place to sleep and no stock of provisions.

However, General Imamura explains that these tactics of the Chinese army are swinging the local populace over to the Japanese side. They resent such destruction of their property and livelihood.

"The Chinese peasants ruined by these tactics approach Japanese reconnoitering parties telling them the whereabouts of the guerillas and offering themselves as guides for our troops," said General Imamura by way of illustration of his claim.

Such assistance is valuable, but the cold fact remains that the Japanese army is in enemy territory and may be moved down at any minute. Thus the strain of fighting for life is never relaxed for the invader. With it all no one who has intimately seen the morale of these troops can doubt that it is any way weakened. Taking absence without leave is virtually unheard of and the officers never appear to be worried about orders being executed.
